

MEDITERRANEA

American Art from the Graham D. Williford Collection

Riots, Unrest and Democracy in the Mediterranean

Thursday, April 7, 3:30-5:00 pm

Catlett Music Center, Room 128

The European Union and the Mediterranean

Robert Henry Cox, Professor of International and Area Studies and Political Science

Tunisia and the Mediterranean

Norman Stillman, Director of Judaic Studies and Department of History

Israel and the Mediterranean

Yaron Ayalon, Visiting Assistant Professor, School of International and Area Studies

The Rocky Road to Democracy in Turkey

Firat Demir, Assistant Professor, Department of Economics

Arab Uprising in the Mediterranean: Maghreb in Revolt

Mohamed Daadaoui, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Oklahoma City University

Organized in cooperation with the European Union Center at the University of Oklahoma.

This symposium is held in conjunction with the exhibition, Mediterranea: American Art from the Graham D. Williford Collection, March 5 through May 15. This symposium is free and open to the public.

The event will take place at Catlett Music Hall, located directly across Elm Street from the Fred Jones Jr. Museum of Art.

For more information, visit www.ou.edu/fjjma.

Fred Jones Jr. Museum of Art

555 Elm Ave.

Norman, OK 73019

Francis Davis Millet (U.S., 1846 - 1912)

Voie des Tombeaux, n.d. [Detail]

Oil on board, 12 x 7 1/4 in.

Courtesy of the Jean and Graham Devoe Williford Charitable Trust

FRED JONES JR.

Museum of Art

The University of Oklahoma